

Alberto Madrazo, Galileo Service Manager, GSA

Alberto has been involved in the European Union GNSS Programmes since 2000. Firstly, working in the private sector where he occupied several managerial positions working mainly in the development of both the EGNOS and Galileo ground systems. In 2013, he joined the GSA Galileo team, actively contributing to key Galileo developments as the procurement of the Galileo Service Operator or the preparatory activities leading to the declaration of the Galileo Initial Service in December 2016. He has been recently appointed as Galileo Service Manager in charge of the definition and implementation of the evolution activities for the Galileo Open, SAR, and High Accuracy services.

Alberto Madrazo holds a degree and Ph.D in Physics from the “Universidad de Cantabria” in Spain.

hosted by organised by

