

Antoine Barré, Manager of train localization projects; SNCF

Antoine Barré is an aerospace engineer and prior to his role at SNCF (The Société nationale des chemins de fer français) he worked as a technical advisor and project manager for the French Ministry of Defence 2006-2017.

As of 2017 he has been working for SNCF as a specialist on localisation technologies (inertial measurement unit, GNSS, vision sensors and fusion algorithm and guidance navigation and control architectures for aerospace applications).

hosted by organised by

