

David Barbier, Regional Manager for Sourcing Operations in South West of Europe, TomTom

I am David Barbier, regional manager Sourcing Operations south west Europe in TomTom Group. I got a geography degree at Lille University in 1996. I started my career already in 1996 in Lille at Tele Atlas where I was regional manager participating actively to develop the first navigation product for car in France.

In 2008, I joined TomTom Group where I continued to acquire various experiences of project and people management.

Today, I oversee Sourcing operations in France, Spain and Portugal focussing on sourcing Data and intelligence to feed TomTom Maps for personal navigation systems and also for connected car services (autonomous driving...).

hosted by organised by

